

LONDON

A research conference for London schools

Friday 5th July at City Hall, London

Hosted by the Mayor of London

ed.
2019

London is one of the most innovative and forward thinking places to be educated in the country and this conference will celebrate the strength and power of the teacher research movement across the city. Teacher researchers will showcase their research findings about pedagogical questions using a range of research methodologies. Leading academic researchers will showcase their findings and open up a dialogue about the implications for practice in schools.

Confirmed speakers include:

Daisy Christodoulou Director of Education, No More Marking

Ruth Dann UCL Institute of Education

Dr Lee Elliot Major University of Exeter

David Godfrey UCL Institute of Education

Jeremy Hodgen UCL Institute of Education

Ruth Kershner University of Cambridge

Martin Mills UCL Institute of Education

Alison Peacock Chief Executive, Chartered College of Teaching

Lesley Saunders University of Oxford

Alicia Shaw Institute for Effective Education

Gordon Stobart University of Oxford

David Weston Chief Executive, Teacher Development Trust

There will also be a range of research focused workshops presented by London schools with themes including: SEN, gender equality, meta-cognition, early years and many more.

Date: Friday 5th July 2019

Venue: City Hall, The Queen's Walk, London SE1 2AA

Delegate costs:

Early bird (until 12th May 2019): £45

Standard rate: £50

Book now at: www.bit.ly/LondonEd2019

This conference is a collaborative project led by: The Association for the Study of Primary Education (ASPE); London South and Impact Teaching School Alliances; Rathfern Primary, a Chartered College of Teaching Hub School; Rosendale Research School, the EEF designated research hub for London and UCL Institute of Education's Research and Development Network.